This brand new organization is positively the largest and best combined company of artists of its kind, and in-cludes on its programme the most novel and exclusive features ever presented to the American public.

One of the strongest productions of Hoyt's "A Texas Steer" yet offered the public comes to the Academy next Saturday for two performances.

Little need be said in praise of this famous comedy, for it has long been recognized as the satiries masterpiece from the pen of Charles H. Hoyt. But importance is given to the engagement when it is announced that the company is an exceptionally brilliant one.

This company issues a joint policy with the insurance Company of North America and Fire Association of Philadelphia, and its assets are over $15,00,000.

the rise and fall of the curtains. The specialties are particularly pleasing, and the whole production is distinctly worth while.

The pulse of the box office at the Academy clearly indicates that Miss Gertrude Coghlan will be greeted by large audiences next Wednesday, when she is to make her appearance here in "Alice of Old Vincennes." It will be the first time the play has been done here, and there is a good deal of ouriosity about it, since it has met with great success elsewhere.

Miss Coghlan has not been seen here for some time. Her last appearance indeed was with her distinguished father, Charles Coghlan, the week before he died. Miss Coghlan has been induced to give a matinee in this city. The sale of seats opens on Monday morning.

THE MARKET IS BOOMING

Great Quantitles of Loose Tobacco.

THIS THE BANNER MONTH

More Hauled Here in the Short Month of February Than at Any Time During the Season - Mr. Vaughan's Opinion.

It is a remarkable fact that during the short month of February just closed there has been more tobacco sold on the Rich mond breaks than in any month since the season opened-not even excepting November, when the receipts were so terday many were utterly surprised. Sales have gone on steadily and nobody took particular notice of the fact that the tobacco was pouring in. For one thing, it was more evenly distributed through the month and hence at no one time did it bank up and glut the marke and thus attract attention. And now at the close of the twenty-eight days it is found that by nearly a quarter of a million pounds the sales exceed those of November or any other month since the season began. The fact is startling, but to the American public.

The Fawcett Company is playing to record breaking business at the Granby Theatris in Norfolk. The Norfolk Landmark said of the first performance of Fedora in that city, which is also to be the opening bill at the Bijou next Monday, as follows:

"For the first time this season Miss Percy Haswell appeared at the Granby last night with the George Fawcett Company. She was received tumultuously when she made her appearance in the first act of Sardou's 'Fedora,' and artistically she achieved one of her greatest successes in the trying role of Princess Fedora. It was something in the nature of a surprise to patrons of the Granby to see Miss Haswell in such a role, she having been for many years identified with high comedy, but her art is deep and wide in scope and the value of her performance of Fedora was instantly seen.
"Incidentally Miss Haswell showed prices. Several crops averaged from $8 to $11.50 around and some sold as high as $18.50. Dark stemming and bright to-bacco are selling at about the same fig-

The total amount of tobacco sold dur

The total amount of tebacco sold during the week was 427,895 pounds. The total of loose tobacco handled during the season, up to date, amounts to 7,229,038 pounds—an increase of 2,157,754 pounds over last year.

MR. VAUGHAN'S REPORT.

Messrs. L. B. Vaughan & Co., proprietors of Crenshaw Warehouse, make a most interesting comment upon the condition of the market. They say:

"Our market closed with the month active and strong, on all grades, under strong demand. In spite of the crowded or glutted months of November and December, and February being the shortest calendar month, yet she takes the laurels of being the largest sale month of this season, having sold for the month 2,123,554 pounds, or say 240,094 pounds more than the pext largest sale month. Total sale for this season, 7,229,028 pounds, as against 5,071,284 pounds same date last year, or an increase of 2,157,704 pounds. Our former predictions of selling more the value of her performance of Fedora was instantly seen.
"Incidentally Miss Haswell showed several of the handsomest gowns seen in Norfolk this season, two of them at least being Parisian creations, which delighted the eye and added vasily to the charm of her performance. After having seen so many weaker actresses here, it is positively refreshing to see an artist of Miss Haswell's skill in such a role." Total sale for this season, 7.229,033 pounds, as against 5.071.24 pounds same date last year, or an increase of 2.157.704 pounds. Our former predictions of selling more this than past season for 25 years we think now beyond question. It is possible our increased sales may be attributed in part to larger crop, still much is due to popular auction sales, when buyers and sellers come in close fellowship, dividing for mutual interest estimate of values. Indeed, we know of no safe means of getting at values except what the same article may be worth to some one else. We see ao reason why our capital city may not out-rival Danville and sell forty to fifty million pounds. We think it is safe also to say that auction sales for leaf tobacco are the "sine qui non" to the success of leaf tobacco markets. No market being on record to the contrary, Richmond still holds its well deserved reputation for the best tobacco market in Virginia." A considerable portion of space in the current issue of the Churchman is devoted to the topic, which is a pretty live one in the church just now. A writer who signs his initials only contributes over a column of reading matter arguing against any change. He gives soveral strong arguments, and then concludes with this sontence: "For all these reasons we think the name, 'Protestant Episcopal Church' is eminently appropriate, and that there is no other which so well sets forth the character and claims of this church."

COMING OF MANSFIELD

A Very Interesting Talk With His Representative.

APPEARS HERE MARCH 10

His Supporting Company is of the Highest Class-Special Scenery is Brought With Him-What Paul Wilstach Says.

Richard Mansfield's business representative, Mr. Paul Wilstach, the wellknown magazine writer, spent a portion of yesterday in Richmond, on his way from New York city to New Orleans. He stopped to consult with Manager Leath about the great actor's appearances in Richmond, Norfolk and Char-Mansfeld plays for less than a week in one city only nine times this winter, and Mr. Leath secured three of week in one city only nine times than a week in one city only nine times this winter, and Mr. Leath secured three of these appearances for his theatres and is justly proud of it.

Said Mr. Wilstach, when seen yesterday at lunch at the Jefferson: "Mr. Mansfield will appear have in Julius Censar' on Tuesday evening, March 10th, on his way from Washington to New Orleans. It will be a pleasure to him to make this trip through the South, though it is to extend over a period of only two weeks. The tour is being made by special train of ten cars, and the representation of this popular play is the most extensive and ambitious production he has ever made.

"The costumes and the scenary were all designed by Sir Alma Tadema, than whom it is generally agreed there is no greater authority on the history and archeology of Roman art. In all nearly 200 people surround Mr. Mansfield in Julius Censar." He plays Brutus and has made it one of the most celebrated successes of his career. Naturally the finer expressions of his art are made in the quarrel scene with Cassius, in the encounter with Censar's ghost and in the death at Philippi.

"Does Mr. Mansfield find that Shakespeare is in favor? Decidedly so in the case of Julius Ceasar. There is an apparent eagerness for the grand old tragedy in every one of the cities where he has appeared. It is perhaps bonstful to say so, but it is indeed significant of the interest in seeing a distinguished artist produce a great Shakespeareau play with proper investiture that Mr. Mansfield has established new records in nearly every city, even at the prices made necessary by the tremendous expense of producing, maartalning and traveling with so extensive an organization.

A. NOTED PLAYWRIGHT.

Paul Wilstach is the author of saveral plays, among them "A Capitol Comedy," which Tim Murphy produced successfully, and he has written a new play, the same to be produced next senson by Adelaide Thurston, who is under the management of Frank J. and Claxton Wilstach, brothers of Paul.

The title of the same is "Polly Primroso," and it was really written with another prominent woman star in mind, but the brothers, to whom it was submitted for their entertainment, discovered such decided merit and such great possibilities for their star that they literally demanded that they should be given the rights of production.

Miss Thurston then read the pleec, and at once made the domand unanimous, and became so enthusiastic that the author, Wilstach, had no other course than to give in. He is now at work upon another play for the woman he intended should act "Polly,"

The piece is on the Clyde Filten order, although no attempt at imitation was thought of in the writing. It is raplete with clever, bright lines, and contains, several unitrie situations—in fact, rather daring, from a stage managor's point of view.

The play will require an exceptionally strong cast, and this early the Managors Wilstach are engaging special people for particular roles. More elaborate scenery than usually carried by and the production is one of magnitude.

A. M. Palmer, who has been associated tude.

A. M. Palmer, who has been associated with Mr. Wilstach in the management of Richard Mansfold, was shown the piece, and he was profuse in his praise of it. He pronounced it a play which would live.

Considering all of its good points, the managers have engaged time at one of the leading New York theatres for next winter, and it is expected to enjoy a prolonged metropolitan run.
